

A Lifetime of Financial Milestones

Located At
101 W Wood St
Paris, TN 38242

A background image for the newsletter cover. It shows a hand holding a silver chess piece (a king) over a chessboard. In the background, there are stacks of US dollar bills. The entire image is in a light blue, semi-transparent style.

INVESTMENT
Strategy
NEWSLETTER

Financial News You Can Use
December 2015

FINANCIAL NEWS YOU CAN USE

A Lifetime of Financial Milestones

Like it or not, we are born with a lifetime of financial milestones laid out for us. It may seem overwhelming, but the system is designed to guide us gently, yet prudently, from childhood through retirement. For the sake of clarity (and sanity) it is helpful to think of life as three stages – each stage containing important financial milestones. Here's a timeline which explains these stages, and attempts to make the process of aging, at least in financial terms, feel a little less fraught.

YOUNG ADULthood

Age 18 – The “kiddie tax” is discontinued, which could affect your tax rate, depending on whether or not you’re a full-time student. You will be taxed at your personal tax rate instead of your parents’.

Age 18 (19 or 21 in some states) – You reach the “age of majority,” i.e., your transition from a minor into legal adulthood. This transition means all funds invested in UTMA/UGMA accounts are now legally yours.

Age 19 and 24 – You’re an adult now, so your parents can’t claim you as a dependent on their tax return unless you’re a full-time student. At age 24, you can’t be claimed as a dependent even if you are a full-time student, so make sure you’re prepared for the April 15 tax return deadline.

THE AGE OF RETIREMENT

Age 55 – A little-known yet helpful retirement loophole, “rule of 55,” kicks in if you retire, quit or are terminated. This rule allows you to take 401(k) distributions from your current employer’s 401(k) plan without penalty before the customary 59½ age threshold.

Age 59½ – You are able to withdraw from traditional IRAs, annuities and qualified retirement plans without penalty. You may also choose to leave these funds untouched to continue their tax-deferred growth.

Age 62 – The earliest age you can begin receiving monthly Social Security benefits, but at a reduced rate and with stipulations on income. Choose your start age wisely, as the earlier you begin collecting, the lower the monthly payments you’ll receive.

Age 65-67 – Depending on the year you were born, you have reached “full retirement age,” which allows you to begin collecting non-reduced Social Security benefits. Collection does not require actual retirement, however, so can continue working without losing benefits.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Age 70 – There are no additional Social Security benefit increases after age 70. Before delaying benefits, it’s prudent to weigh the monthly benefit increase against possible investment opportunities, which you can explore if you take the funds at an earlier age.

Age 70½ – Withdrawals must be taken (and thus, sadly, taxed) from your IRAs, SIMPLE IRAs, SEP IRAs and employee-sponsored retirement plans (excluding Roth IRAs). These mandatory withdrawals are called “required minimum distributions” (RMDs), and are calculated by the IRS based on account value and estimated life expectancy. As with many things IRS-related: it’s complicated.

Age 90 – For some annuity plans, the default distribution option may automatically activate. To save yourself time and headache, contact the annuity company before your 90th birthday to select the most suitable distribution option.

We can’t control aging, but we can understand how it affects our financial situation. These milestones are signposts which help us prepare for the inevitable. Understanding them allows us to relax and enjoy the present.

Past performance does not guarantee future results. This information is general in nature and should not be construed as tax or legal advice. INVEST Financial Corporation does not provide tax or legal advice. Please consult your tax and/or legal adviser for guidance on your particular situation. The information in this report has been obtained from sources considered to be reliable but we do not guarantee that the foregoing material is accurate or complete. This article is not an offer to sell or a solicitation of an offer to buy any security, and may not be reproduced or made available to other persons without the express consent of INVEST Financial Corporation.

Registered Representative of INVEST Financial Corporation, member FINRA/SIPC. INVEST and its affiliated insurance agencies offer securities, advisory services and certain insurance products and are not affiliated with FirstBank Investment Partners or FirstBank. Products offered are: • Not FDIC insured • Not Bank Guaranteed • May lose value including loss of principal.
HEC13117 12/15 1116.133335